Consulting

Design Done Right

Our team of experts provides consulting services to assist your internal team in designing the best system for your needs. Utilizing our Design Done Right approach, we have the knowledge necessary to help your team implement the optimal hosting solution for your application.

Infrastructure Architecture Design

It is critical to build it the right way, the first time, to avoid re-architecting your hardware structure with each phase of design or growth. Our team will guide you through an exercise to help identify all of the critical components necessary for ongoing stability and scalability for your application. We will deliver a system design that you can take and execute using your preferred hardware solution platform.

Monitoring System Design

SpinDance has years of experience hosting applications running in mission-critical production environments. This has given us an in-depth understanding of just how important effective monitoring is to the health of a system. Downtime, caused by service interruptions, negatively impact your customer's perception of the overall product. Our team can help you identify your most important metrics, and set up a comprehensive alert and metric system.

Deployment Process Design

For many companies, the concept of Continuous Integration and Continuous Deployments is intriguing, but some organizations may not know how to go about implementing these concepts into their current process. We leverage many technologies to create repeatable and flexible deployment processes. Let us help you drive efficiencies within your team.

Testing Process Design

Even with great infrastructure architecture and deployment design, an application will encounter issues if it is not tested correctly. The SpinDance team will help you design and build-in a testing process that takes into account all of the system features.

Training

When introducing new technologies and processes within your team, training is a critical step toward success. Walking your team through the changes, our team will leverage your expertise and professionalism to bring your team up to speed. We understand that time is limited for internal resources, so we will add value by taking this off your hands.

Staff Evaluation and Hiring Assistance

Looking to add members to your team? We can help you evaluate their skill set and level of knowledge regarding the newly implemented technologies or processes.

The consulting services SpinDance provides are dependable and reliable. We can count on SpinDance resources to be hard-working and to answer the call day and night, if necessary. It's great to have Managed Services resources we can count on."
